SYLLABUS UNIT 3 (10 CREDITS)

DIGITAL MARKETING PLANNING

This unit aims to provide candidates with the skills and knowledge to understand the fundamental digital marketing planning concepts for an organisation, together with key factors involved with the implementation, measurement and evaluation of successful campaigns. Digital marketing has evolved from a peripheral element of organisational marketing to one that is at the hub of customer-centric communications in an increasingly multi-channel environment (eg mobile, tablets and social media).

The unit will consider a range of environmental factors both internal and external (eg legal) that will shape and influence the digital marketing planning process. Various digital models will be explored. In addition, similarities and differences covering the mix elements in traditional and digital marketing will be addressed, along with issues such as relationship marketing, permission and consumer concerns around privacy, trust and security with the emphasis on the digital environment.

Overarching learning outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, candidates will be able to:

- Appraise different digital planning approaches and marketing environmental factors that influence online marketing activity.
- Review the similarities and differences between digital and traditional marketing concepts and applications.
- Discuss key stages in online development using relevant business models.

- Analyse the ways in which the internet has affected the marketing mix elements and how organisations employ them creatively in the digital environment.
- Review the importance of target marketing and emerging digital buyer behaviour characteristics and how organisations can respond to meet changing behaviour and expectations.
